Con man caught on Crimewatch

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A CON man who was featured on TV's Crimewatch for failing to pay hotel bills was caught after some detective work by staff at two pubs.

Scott West, 36, who used stolen credit cards to fund his stays at pubs and lodgings in the Haverhill area, has been jailed for a year.

Cambridgeshire police described him as a serial fraudster who had duped a number of pubs, including others in Essex, out of thousands of pounds.

West admitted five charges of fraud, two of theft and one of making off without payment when he appeared before Cambridge Magistrates' Court on Tuesday.

West arrived at the Crown pub in Linton in March, using the name James and telling regulars he was a jockey at Newmarket, before disappearing early one morning.

Serial fraudster jailed for year after pub swindles

He later checked in as Sam Green at the Black Bull at Balsham, but was recognised by a waitress who also worked at the Crown in Linton. He fled before police arrived but his DNA was traced on a coffee cup, which was later used as evidence when he was arrested.

Mariusz Maklowski, landlord of the Crown at Linton, said they knew West only as James, who told them he was a jockey.

He said: "He was very friendly and talking to everyone and was even trying to organise a charity football match between the Crown and Newmarket jockeys.

"Then he just disappeared early in the morning and we heard later that he had done the same thing at the Black Bull at Balsham and other places before they caught him."

On the sentence Mr Maklowski added: "I think he got what he deserved. We provided him with a service and we deserved to get paid for it, but I don't expect to get the money back. It is the first time anything like this has happened to us."

Mike Champion, manager of the Black Bull, said he was relieved that West was now behind bars.

He said: "He was very convincing. He told us all the same stories about being a jockey at Newmarket. He was found out because one of our girls recognised him from the Crown, but as soon as he saw her, he left."

Detective Constable Tanya Mutch, who investigated, said: "West was a serial fraudster who thought nothing of swindling people out of their money. He won the trust of a lot of people by acting friendly and presenting a fake persona, running up large bills he had no intention of paying."

Unable to track West down, officers turned to the Crimewatch Roadshow, which aired his picture on BBC 1 on June 15.

By then West, of Old School Lane, Upware, Ely, had landed a job as a chef at the Five Miles From Anywhere No Hurry Inn pub in Upware, where a colleague recognised the image and called police.

West admitted charges of using a stolen credit card to pay for lodgings, food and alcohol at the Crown Inn at Linton, on March 23, on April 1 checking out of the Black Bull pub at Balsham using a second stolen card and using the same card to pay his bill at the Three Hills pub in Bartlow on April 7. On March 10 he also failed to pay a pub bill of £210 at Steeple Bumpstead, and he also admitted stealing two cheques – one in Steeple Bumpstead and one in Halstead – and trying to cash them in at Haverhill to gain £1,384.

Magistrates heard West had previous convictions for similar offences, and imposed the maximum term of imprisonment within their powers.

Jailed: Scott West.

Haverhill residents share their experiences and commemoration of the London 2012 Olympic Games

Big event: Patrick and Anne Loveday.

Anne goes to heart of the Games

AS MILLIONS have cheered on Team GB at the Olympics from their sofas, Weekly News receptionist Anne Loveday and her family have been at the heart of the action.

Anne, who works at the Weekly News office in Queen Street, Haverhill, was thrilled to be allocated tickets for several events, along with more bid for by her sons, Christopher, and Mark. Joined by husband Patrick, daughter-in-law Carly and Mark's friend Robert Farrant, the family paid out more than £1,000 for tickets and has had some early morning starts, but enjoyed every minute of the experience.

They have already enjoyed volleyball at Earls Court, watched Team GB play football at Wembley, seen boxing at the Excel Centre and hockey at the Olympic Village. Anne, Patrick and their two sons will pay their final visit when they attend the football final at Wembley Stadium on Saturday.

Anne said: "As soon as the tickets went on sale we said we would go if we could, no matter what. Mark got his tickets in the first round and then Christopher and I got ours in the second one. After the first round we did not think we would be lucky again and get any more.

"It has been absolutely wonderful. I am so glad that we went, especially to the Olympic Park, because it was such a great experience. It won't happen in London like that again, it was a real once in a lifetime opportunity.

"They have done such a fantastic job of organising it, and who ever gets to live in the flats will be really lucky. The atmosphere has been really good, there were plenty of places to get something to eat and drink and we did not queue anywhere, even for the toilets.

"We enjoyed everything we saw, but we especially liked the volleyball and would like to watch it again. It is really easy to follow, with lots of razzamatazz, with music when they score and cheerleaders waving their pompons.

"There were teams of volunteers everywhere showing you where to go, they were really happy and whipping up the enthusiasm of the crowds. Everyone was so calm and the athletes were mingled in with the public. We went in at the same time as the Croatian handball team, who were huge great chaps. The wild flowers they have planted around the Olympic Park are absolutely beautiful. It was a really privilege to be able to go and be a part of it all, we would not have missed it for the world."

New torch to light up lives

ANOTHER Olympic torch has visited a Suffolk town as it travels the country raising cash for a hearing dogs charity.

Kelly Bennett of Withersfield Road, Haverhill saw an item on breakfast television about a five-year-old boy called Logan McKerrow from Chard in Somerset, who had made his own Olympic Torch and decided to follow in the footsteps of some other torch bearers, who sold their torches on-line in aid of charity.

He initially raised £21 for the Let's Hear it for Deaf Children Campaign run by Hearing Dogs for Deaf People.

The person who bought the torch was impressed by Logan's generosity and agreed for it to be re-sold, then his granddad came up with the idea of organising their own torch relay. People have been bidding for a leg on its journey, to see how far round the country it could travel.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

So far it has raised more than £18,000 towards his £50,000 target for the charity.

Kelly, a finance supervisor for NEC UK at the Cambridge Research Park in Waterbeach, became the 10th stop in Logan's Olympic Torch Relay and its first visit to East Anglia at the weekend.

She said: "I was so touched by this family's generosity of spirit that I decided that I wanted to be part of it. Last week, I was the winning bidder and the 10th member of Logan's relay.

"We have the torch until Thursday and took some photos this weekend with the town sign and on parts of the official relay route through Haverhill.

"I want to try and get as much publicity for Hearing Dogs for the Deaf's campaign and the torch relay itself, before I send it on its next leg next week.

"I just wanted to spread the word, especially as we were one of the very lucky towns to see the real thing.

Man admits burglary

A MAN who admitted a burglary and theft from a vehicle has been given a suspended prison sentence by magistrates.

Scott MacLeay, 29, of Sperling Drive, Haverhill, appeared at Bury St Edmunds magistrate's court on Tuesday where he admitted an offence of burglary at Brandon, between June 2 and 27, stealing a gold sovereign ring worth more than £500, and at Haverhill on July 14 stealing a satellite navigation system, a key and a watch worth £223 from a car. He was given an eight-week prison sentence, suspended for one year for both offences.

Woman, 63, is found safe

A MISSING woman who prompted a huge police search was found safe and well in the area where she lives, at around noon last Thursday. Around 30 officers and a helicopter arrived in Sturmer, on Thursday morning to search for Elizabeth Wright, 63, who had last been seen at 11pm the night before. Although relatives had spoken to her on the phone after that time, there were concerns for her safety.

Sentence is adjourned on man who grabbed schoolgirl

A MAN who grabbed a schoolgirl and held a knife to her stomach has had his sentencing postponed by a judge.

Derek Bowering, 42, of Abbotts Road, was due to be sentenced on Monday at Ipswich Crown Court, but Judge John Devaux put off the sentencing to allow more information to be gathered about possible help for him.

Bowering had pleaded guilty at a previous hearing to twice being in possession of a bladed article in a public place.

He had been in possession of a kitchen knife in Chilton Street, Clare and Chapel Drive, Haverhill, both on January 31.

Bowering also pleaded guilty to an offence of false imprisonment of a woman in Haverhill on the same date.

After hearing submissions from defence barrister Jonathan Goodman, the judge agreed that more details were needed about a package of care and support from the Probation Service for Bowering.

Judge Devaux told Bowering that he would continue to be remanded in custody until he is sentenced on Monday, August 13.

A DRIVER accused of causing the death of a 13-year-old boy and his grandfather has had his case committed to Crown court.

Paul Bell, of North Crescent, Steeple Bumpstead, is alleged to have driven an Audi A3 on the A1307 without due care and attention, causing the death of Joshua Bysouth, 13, and his grandfather Michael Kidd, 66, both of Stanleys Farm Road, Saffron Walden.

The offence is alleged to have taken place last September.

The 47-year-old appeared in Cambridge Magistrates' Court on Monday, when magistrates committed him to Crown court to next appear for a plea and case management hearing on August 31. He was granted bail.

Patrols boosted to crack down on yobs

EXTRA patrols have been put on by police to stamp out incidents of anti-social behaviour during the school holidays – and members of the public are asked to help by reporting any incidents.

Pc Richard Ackroyd, a Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team officer, said officers had been making regular high-visibility patrols in Queen Street, which was identified as one of their three main priorities at the last priority setting meeting in June.

This followed complaints by residents of large groups congregating around the seat in the area, as well as aggressive street drinkers asking people for money. Pc Ackroyd said only minor incidents of anti-social behaviour had been dealt with in the street, but asked members of the public to report any incidents immediately, so that they could be dealt with.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Sgt Sarah Bartley said police were opposed to a suggestion that the seat should be removed, as it was often used by members of the public who were not causing any problems. Police were working with shopkeepers in the area to tackle problems there and it was felt this was succeeding.

Elsewhere in the town, more patrols have been sent to the Parkway estate, following reports of large group of youths congregating near the new Catholic Church in Queensway, throwing stones and damaging plants. Extra officers have been sent to the area between 8 and 9pm, when most of the problems were reported. Members of the public are asked to report any more incidents.

More anti-social behaviour has been reported around the Newt Pond on the same estate, which is close to a popular children's playground that is well used during the summer holidays.

Pc Ackroyd said: "Generally levels of anti-social behaviour in the town are well down on past years, but we want to nip any problems in the bud and deal with them robustly before they become any more serious.

"We need help from the public to let us know straight away of any incidents so that we can deal with them straight away."

Anyone who has concerns about anti-social behaviour, in any of these areas or elsewhere, is asked to contact police on 101.

Talking business

A monthly focus on Haverhill's commercial community with Robin and Daniel Pilley of

This month Robin, a director of the town's CXG Property Services, asks MP Mark Prisk, Minister of State for Business, Enterprise and Innovation, about government perspectives on a number of issues affecting small businesses.

To have a say and get involved, email robin@cxgggroup.co.uk

Opposition policies that must be pushed through

I AM pleased to say that for this month's column I managed to persuade the Minister of State for Business, Enterprise and Innovation, Mark Prisk MP, to be put under our interview spotlight.

I felt it would be interesting to get a national government perspective on a raft of issues that have a significant impact on all small businesses.

I have known Mark for almost three years. Following correspondence with Richard Spring, our local MP at the time, it was suggested that I write to Mr Prisk as it was felt that he would be particularly interested in the points I was raising.

Richard Spring identified Mr Prisk as a potential political 'high flyer and I was delighted when he replied to my letter within two weeks.

He clearly had an informed understanding and a sympathetic comprehension of the frustrations that small businesses continually encounter with unnecessary red tape and bureaucracy. Indeed, his letter demonstrated to me a desire and passion to try to create a friendlier and supportive small business environment. He recognised how important small businesses are for this country if we are going to get the economy moving in the right direction.

I was particularly impressed with the following lines: "We are looking at the way in which local regulations are implemented generally, to try and change the culture of the various different 'clipboard' inspectors so that their task is to aid law-abiding businesses to meet standards and not simply to find fault."

It was gratifying to interview Mark, as a minister of state, who I found more than justified the faith Richard Spring had shown in him. In view of the current economic situation it is even more important that some of the policies that Mark talked about in Opposition are now pushed through in Government. I found it very interesting listening to the progress he feels his department is making and his personal contribution.

His view is that as a business community, we are all aware that the present climate is very difficult. However, if the Government can start to get a grip with the big issues it will filter down and start making a difference locally.

The euro crisis needs a positive outcome – we need to stay in the EU to enjoy the benefits of the free market but have a far looser agreement and pull back some of the powers that we have given away. I hope we will have a government which is strong enough to represent us and achieve this outcome.

With regard to welfare reform, I think we all accept that cuts need to be made. Our politicians have created a dependency culture in sections of our society which needs to change, but we must also ensure that we protect the vulnerable. In education, we need to find a way to encourage entrepreneurship, a work ethic and an understanding of our history as well as the core basic

Q&A: Mark Prisk, MP

Questions for Mark Prisk MP, Minister of State for Business and Enterprise

Please tell us a little about your background?

I am Cornish by birth but have lived in Hertfordshire since 1986. My father was a tax inspector but always wanted to run his own business. He started his own valuation and auction company, later adding an estate agency in West Cornwall. I am married to Lesley and we live in Much Hadham, right in the middle of the constituency.

What, in your opinion, are the three most difficult issues facing small businesses today? And how can the Government help overcome these issues?

Firstly, credit for small businesses. How do they get the money they need? Secondly, making sure the burden of regulation starts to come down. Thirdly, skills. These are the three areas that we are working very hard on at the moment.

The Coalition has made great store in saying that they will reduce red tape and bureaucracy but a number of my fellow business colleagues have not seen much evidence of this when dealing with organisations such as the local council. Examples – health and safety and planning. When can we expect to see progress?

Over the next 12 months I think you (small businesses) are going to start seeing things that will make a difference. We have changed the rules around employment tribunals previously explained by Matthew Hancock MP. Secondly, the Chancellor has just put through some changes to the tax system for small businesses, whereby the complications for them should be much reduced. Thirdly, there are changes around health and safety; nobody wants to work in an unsafe environment. However, many of the rules and regulations were designed for big national organisations and are not applicable to 'one-man' businesses. We are, therefore, going to exempt up to a million small businesses from the H&S rules where the business they are conducting has no impact on anyone else.

What measures are the Government taking to encourage entrepreneurs?

We are encouraging schools to start businesses within the curriculum in order for students to start learning how to run a business. We are also creating 'entrepreneur business clubs' on every campus including colleges, not just universities. It means that you can network in the same way as mature businesses while still learning. Most importantly, we are trialling, until the end of the summer, a start-up loan for young people aged 18 to 24 which comes with a business mentor. It means that young people can finish school and apply for a loan in the same way as they would a loan for university. This is something Lord David Young and I have been working on – there will be £10 million available this year rising to over £20 million next year. This will show that we, as a government, understand and value entrepreneurs as much as university students.

Sometimes the Coalition does not get the good news stories out to the public. Are you aware of how important it is to portray your policies to the public?

I think in politics it's not just what you do, but it is how people learn about what you do – and we have to work through the prism of the media. I do think that there are times when we have got our media coverage wrong. We have been accused of making u-turns, (an example was the cut in petrol duty but in fact this was a Labour tax increase which they pressurised us to reverse). We listened and responded, and had we not done so we would then have been accused of being pig-headed! You're damned if you do - and damned if you don't.

How does the euro crisis impact on the UK and is our Chancellor hiding behind this crisis to explain a lack of growth?

I think that the key thing is to make sure the credit squeeze is eased, that is why we are putting £20 billion into the new NLGS (New Loan Guarantee Scheme) which will loosen the availability of money and also put down the price of loans to small businesses. Making sure that people still have confidence in the UK, in terms of a place to invest – we have secured more than £4 billion worth of investment from the automotive sector because they look to the UK as a good place to do business and that is really important – making sure that the UK is competitive. Making sure that we do the basics right, have the skills and the infrastructure so that we come to a point where confidence in our economy starts to return. I actually think that the UK economy is quite well structured now – it just lacks acknowledgement because it is coloured by what is happening in the euro zone.

To read more from Robin's in-depth interview with Mark Prisk, see www.haverhillweeklynews.co.uk literacy and numeracy skills.

The reason that we attract such high immigration levels is down to our generous welfare system and the fact that immigrants from Eastern Europe appear to have a greater work ethic and level of basic education, which enables them to gain employment in this country.

I noted from Mark that a big part of his motivation was a desire to make a personal contribution to solving some of the problems and frustrations that we face as small businesses. I also sensed some frustration from serving in a coalition government, as compromises inevitably have to be made.

The coalition Government had to be formed due to the critical financial situation the country faced at the time. It has provided the country with stability and by the time of the next election it will have served its purpose. Then it will be for the main political parties to convince the electorate to give them a governing majority by demonstrating how the issues of the day can be solved.

■ In next month's column I hope to tell you a little more about my interview with David Gold, the co-chairman of West Ham United Football Club. It was a fascinating insight into this self-made millionaire and I am sure you will agree with me when you read it. In the meantime, I hope you are enjoying the holiday season.

Full of praise: Aled Jones, left, with Hazel, Hannah, 3, Garry and Jessica, 18 months. CP

Family who battled debt star on Songs of Praise

A FAMILY who narrowly avoided eviction three times and were expecting bailiffs to arrive at their door have told their story on TV.

Hazel Saltzer and her family were interviewed by chorister turned presenter Aled Jones for Songs of Praise about Christians in debt and poverty.

Hazel, 30, and her husband Garry, 48, of Hazel Close, Haverhill, spoke about how a Christian charity helped them halve their debts and turn life around for themselves and their children Hannah, 3, and Jessica, 18 months.

When the couple, who are members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, married four years ago, both were working, but have since had to stop through ill health.

Hazel has only one kidney, making her prone to constant urinary infections, and a bowel condition which would normally affect a much older person.

Husband Garry has arthritis in both knees and four prolapsed discs.

Hazel said: "We have been struggling with debt for quite a long time and had got to the stage where the bailiffs were coming knocking on our door the next day, when I went to the Reach centre in Haverhill.

"They put us in touch with Christians Against Poverty and they started helping us to pay off our debts.

"Because we had stuck to the plan they gave us, we were nominated for a free holiday, which is something we would never have been able to afford.

"We are going on an all expenses paid four-day trip to Bath and another group called Acts 435 is paying for the transport.

"When we went to the Reach office to collect the cheque, I suddenly realised that it was Aled Jones sitting in the corner.

"He was really nice, very down to earth and good with the children.

"I was really happy to be able to spread the word about the brilliant work that they do. They have completely transformed our lives.

"Not only am I sorting out my debts, but I have also found a faith. Our church actually paid money so that we could keep our home.

"We were really desperate, but since Christians Against Poverty took over we have halved our debt.

"A lot of people don't know about what they do and if it helps just one other family, it will be worth it."

Hazel's interview was shown on Sunday on the BBC2 programme.

Race night challenge to raise funds for hospice

A NIGHT at the races with a difference next week is set to raise funds for St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Jacobs Allen, accountants and tax advisors, have planned a night of indoor horse racing next Thursday, August 16, as part of their efforts for the Towergate Accumulator Challenge.

The challenge sees businesses across West Suffolk and Thetford battling to turn a £50 stake – donated by Towergate Insurance – into as much money as possible for the hospice.

In addition to the thrills and spills of the horse racing, there will be food and a charity raffle.

Abby Mayes, hospice corporate fundraiser, said: "This is set to be a great evening, with all the thrills and spills of the races, as well as the chance to raise funds for a great cause. I hope it is well supported."

The event takes place at Days Inn Hotel, in Phoenix Road, Haverhill, from 7pm until 11.45pm.

Councils seek views on who must take on tax increase

RESIDENTS of West Suffolk are being asked about who should pay more council tax, following changes to the way discounts and benefits are funded.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Forest Heath District Council are both conducting surveys to help decide where the costs of the new system should fall.

Currently the Government's Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) funds all council tax benefit, but it will cut the amount by 10 per cent from next April.

Each council now needs to decide its own Local Council Tax Support Scheme, to set how much discount people will get.

The change in funding means some people will have to pay more council tax.

The survey is asking people who should share this cost and rank them in order of preference. The options are:

■ Working age people who receive council tax support pay more council tax.

■ Owners of second homes pay more council tax.

■ Owners of empty homes

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

pay more council tax.

■ People who benefit from the second adult rebate paying more council tax.

It is likely that there will need to be a mixture of the options, because some will not raise enough on their own.

But whatever the results of the survey show, people who currently receive council tax benefit, are of working age, and are available for work, will be likely to pay more.

Pensioners who are on low incomes will not be affected by the changes, as the Government has said they are not able to work to support themselves.

The cabinet members responsible for Resources, Cllr Stephen Edwards (Forest Heath) and Cllr Dave Ray (St Edmundsbury), said: "The Government is cutting the amount of money for benefits and discounts.

"We have considered other options, such as putting up council tax for everyone to meet the shortfall, but we know most people do not want us to do that.

"We could also cut the funding for other services, but that does not seem fair.

"It's up to us to see that this burden is shared fairly among those who currently receive benefit or a discount, and we welcome people's views to help us decide exactly how we do this."

Consultation forms and leaflets are being sent to more than 14,000 people and organisations across West Suffolk who currently receive a council tax discount, advise recipients or are involved in some way.

But the consultation is open online to every West Suffolk resident.

The consultation form, explanatory leaflet and full details of the new scheme are available for Forest Heath residents on: www.forest-heath.gov.uk/counciltaxsupport and for St Edmundsbury residents on: www.stedmundsbury.gov.uk/counciltaxsupport.

The consultations, which close on October 26, are separate because each council, although asking identical questions through the survey, could choose to implement different local council tax support schemes.

These schemes will start from April 1 next year.

Haverhill Bookworms: The Bookworms met in the library to chuckle over Cold Comfort Farm, Stella Gibbon's inspired parody of the doom-laden accounts of rural life popularised by the likes of DH Lawrence and Thomas Hardy.

They are currently reading Beryl Bainbridge's Every Man for Himself, her fictional account of the Titanic tragedy – even if you haven't read it yourself, why not join them for a discussion that might cover everything and anything – life, the universe, and the price of lettuce! And perhaps you can help choose the next book.

The next meeting will be on Saturday, from 2.30-4pm in the library.

Please ask the staff for details or phone them on 01440 702638.

■ USA: At the meeting on July 31 the subject of a talk was 'My work as a forensic scientist and offender profiler'.

Speaker Anne Davies has recently retired from her position of Head of Crime Analysis with the Metropolitan Police.

As advisor to the TV series, Waking the Dead, her knowledge helped to bring up-to-date authenticity to the programme.

Anne has been involved, not only with current crime analysis, but also with unsolved crime dating back to the 1970s, using refined techniques of DNA sequencing and comparison microscopy to identify fibres and body fluids of victims and criminals.

Although the national database idea was abolished there was sufficient evidence retained for detailed analysis to be studied. Cambridge rapist Peter Cook took careful precautions and was difficult to identify in the 1970s, and his "trophy" collection of women's underwear ended up, after careful examination, on a display board in Anne's department.

Evidence for the Stephen Lawrence and Damilola Taylor murder cases proved important for successful prosecution of their killers.

Familial and microcondial DNA techniques have added indisputable biological evidence to decedency claims, notably descendants of Tsar Nicholas of Russia, and living relatives of Thomas Jefferson in the USA.

Botanical analysis of debris found blocking tubes in the engines of a crashed Air France plane proved that sabotage was not to blame.

Anne's faultless presentation of interesting crime investigations by mainly DNA profiling held the attention and added to the appreciation of the power of forensic science in the 21st century.

Ball boosts cash for Africa mission

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

AN AFRICAN themed ball raised a bumper £8,000 towards a doctor's Voluntary Services Overseas trip to Africa.

Dr Andrew Cornish, 58, is retiring next month from the Christmas Maltings and Clements surgery in Haverhill after three decades. He has signed up to do a year's voluntary service in southern Ethiopia.

His wife, Lindsey, who plans to travel back and forth from the UK to Africa, has been organising fundraising for the trip, including a golf tournament and a ball at Great Thurlow.

Dr Cornish said they were delighted that their target of £5,000 had already been exceeded and extra money will be used to pay for medical equipment, which can be left behind when he leaves.

Mrs Cornish said of the ball: "It was absolutely brilliant – we sold 146 tickets and did not have anybody who did not turn up."

The couple have to have 14 vaccinations each and will stock up with any medication they might need, including malaria tablets.

The post is to a town called Arba Minch, a picturesque spot in the Great Rift Valley, which is at reasonable altitude and not too hot.

It has a population of 75,000 to 80,000 and has electricity and running water, unlike many VSO posts. Dr Cornish will be working on a project to set up maternity and childcare services in the area.

Dr Cornish said: "The average age for a first pregnancy is 14 and because women have a lesser value in society, they are often given away or sold off by the family. There are a lot of complications with pregnancy, caused by malnutrition and their small size, because they are not fully developed themselves.

"Ninety per cent of them have no care from a qualified health professional at all. It is a joint project with UNICEF to set up a system of ante-natal, post natal and childcare. The number one cause of death in 15-20-year-olds is childbirth. It is also about trying to get women more valued in the community and respected more."

"HIV and AIDS is also a big problem and it is also aimed to try and introduce family planning."

"I think it is a good placement and Lindsey is happier about it than some of the other places we could have been sent. There are not a lot of roads and it is a nine-hour journey to the capital. The houses are more mud huts, but the scenery looks beautiful. Naturally, I am a little apprehensive, but also excited and looking forward to a new challenge."

Patients and colleagues have been very supportive of the trip, with Dr Cornish due to leave at the end of October. Anyone wanting to make donations can do so at www.justgiving.com/Lindsey-Cornish.

Steve in Olympic help task

FIRST aid volunteer Steve Peterman has been getting up at 4am to commute to London to help ensure the safety of visitors during the Olympics.

The British Red Cross Volunteer from Steeple Bumpstead, has been travelling to the capital to join 150 other Red Cross first aid volunteers at five of the busiest train stations.

Over the past 12 days, first aid volunteers like Steve, 68, have helped 263 people across London.

Steve, with 30 years' first aid experience behind him, is based at Liverpool Street station and will have provided a total of 32 hours of first aid cover by the end of the Games. He said: "It's been one of busiest stations but we have been well prepared. We have a treatment room near platform 10 with four first aid trained volunteers on duty at any one time. From giving CPR to giving out a plaster for a cut finger, between us we will be able to help in some way."

Steve, who lived in America for 37 years, has had his fair share of Olympic experiences. He said: "I was lucky enough to be at the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, and in Los Angeles for the 1984 Games."

"I love the Olympics, and have always cheered for the British athletes but I am particularly enjoying London 2012 because I am cheering along with everyone else for a change."

On your mikes for radio marathon

TEENAGER Daniel Bell is hoping to beat a record set by top DJ Chris Moyles for a non-stop live radio broadcast.

Daniel, 15, a pupil at Linton Village College, has already set up his own radio station called Haverhill FM.

On Monday at 5pm he was joined by friends Luke Tabram and Callum Coleman at the Days Inn Hotel, Haverhill, at the start of a 70-hour radio marathon, due to last until 3pm today, Thursday.

They hope to raise at least £100 each for the Teenage Cancer Trust and CLIC Sargent.

broadcasters did a 30-hour broadcast marathon from a shed in Dan's garden at Bumpstead Road, Haverhill, in memory of one of his fellow pupils Jessica Gower, who died from bone cancer in December 2010.

Daniel, who is training other youngsters to do radio broadcasts, is also in the running for a £2,000 Ferrier Pearce Young Person of the Year award, for which he nominated himself.

Daniel said: "Having these young volunteers gives them something positive to do, as well as teaching them skills, including organising events.

"We are helping the community by publicising the town, getting the public involved in events, and helping charitable causes as well.

Daniel said he was nervous, but excited about the 70-hour marathon.

He said: "We will take it in turns, occasionally getting some sleep.

"We understand that this will be a world record for the longest team broadcast."

Last year Chris Moyles broke the world record for a team marathon at 51.5 hours which raised cash for Comic Relief.

Who will follow in Daisy's steps?

Caring touch: Daisy Moore, last year's youngest winner.

DAISY Moore was one of three inspiring carers honoured in the 2011 Community Awards – despite being only six years old.

The dutiful youngster, from Offord Cluny, showed maturity beyond her tender years as she looked after older sister Molly, who suffered a stroke three years ago.

After she was crowned a Carer of the Year last year, our sister title, the Cambridge News arranged for Daisy and her family to go to Alton Towers – and they had such a good time they have organised a repeat trip for later this year.

Mum Katie said her Daisy deserved the outing, which involved a two-day stay at the Splash Landings Hotel at the theme park.

She said: "It was great for her to be a kid and for everyone to relax together away from home. She loves all the rides. Molly is a bit more cautious but Daisy wanted to go on the most frightening ones."

Daisy, who is now seven and goes to Offord Primary School, keeps an eye on nine-year-old Molly, fetching things for her, wheeling her around and helping her eat and drink. They sleep in the same room so Daisy is Molly's first port of call at night – and she assumes that role for much of the day too.

Katie, 40, added: "We're always impressed with Daisy. She takes responsibility without being asked. She has had to mature quickly but she can still be daft and silly sometimes and she tries to put lipstick on without daddy seeing."

"She is very good in that she knows she can't be the centre of attention because we have to concentrate on Molly a lot of the time. But she will go off and read a book and occupy herself. We're very proud."

Katie hopes people will come forward to nominate others for this year's Community Awards.

Daisy was the youngest of the three winners in last year's Carer of the Year category.

Ethan Jones, 16, from Cambridge, was recognised for the way he helps his mother and brother, who both suffer from skeletal dysplasia.

Popular Sawston villager John Lloyd, 74, won the adult award.

He lost his arm in a work accident before losing his wife, leaving him to care for his two young children. He is now the sole carer for his second wife.

Their contributions are typical of the stories that come out of each year's Community Awards.

This year there are 10 categories, including Unsung Hero, Lifetime Achievement, Young Achiever and Star of the Year.

Paul Brackley, the editor of the Cambridge News, said: "Every year our Community Awards are a special celebration of some remarkable people."

"But we can't do it without nominations from our readers – so please take the time to make yours by using the form in this paper, or by visiting our website at www.cambridge-news.co.uk.

"It's a terrific way to reward people who go the extra mile."

Fun day tribute brings in £4,300

A FAMILY fun day held in memory of a girl who died after a lifelong battle with cerebral palsy raised more than £4,000.

Chelsey Boreham, of High Street, West Wrattling, was diagnosed with the condition at birth and found to be suffering from chronic lung disease a few years later.

She died in February last year aged 11, spending her last days in East Anglia's Children's Hospice at Milton.

For the second year running, a group of friends of Chelsey's parents, Sara and Ian, held a music event and family fun day in the grounds of West Wrattling football club, to raise money for the club and the hospice.

A staggering £4,300 was raised, which has now been split and presented to both organisations.

The event included activities such as tractor and trailer rides, a bouncy castle, tombola, raffle and barbecue, and performances from local bands.

Sara Boreham, Chelsey's mum, said: "We're delighted so many people helped make this year's event bigger and better than last year."

Councils agree to leadership group

TWO councils in West Suffolk have formally approved a new shared corporate leadership team.

Forest Heath District Council and St Edmundsbury Borough Council gave the go-ahead to a move that will see a team of one chief executive, two directors and nine heads of service working across the region to support two councils. The new body sees a reduction of two directors and five heads of service.

The two councils started working together in 2002 on recycling and, more recently, have begun to join up other services. Shared senior management is the next step in the process of having one West Suffolk staff structure.

St Edmundsbury Borough

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Council Leader, Cllr John Griffiths, said: "This is another milestone on our shared services journey. It will not always be an easy journey for staff or councillors, but it is one we need to make so we can do our best for the people we serve in West Suffolk."

Forest Heath District Council leader Cllr James Waters said: "Between us, our councils need to save £2.5 million from our budgets. This shared structure is about making every minute count and every penny count."

The two directors' posts are significantly different to those of the current corporate or strategic directors at the two councils. They will not be responsible for managing individuals or services but will work across all the services, bringing people together and making the right connections internally and externally to make the best use of individuals, depending on the project or activity.

Chief executive Ian Gallin said: "Having directors managing heads of service who then manage service managers is simply too bureaucratic. This will be a corporate leadership team who will not be there to check staff are doing their jobs, but to empower and enable them to do their jobs."

No costs or savings are identified yet from the management team restructure, as they will not be known until the new team is in place, which is due by October 1.

How Henry inspired me in my charity challenge

So precious: Jennie Strutt with Henry at home in Steeple Morden.

Portrait: David Johnson 846767

Born eight weeks premature, Henry weighed just over 4lb – now he's healthy, happy – and gorgeous. Interview by LOUISE MARTIN

HOLDING her baby boy as he sleeps soundly in her arms, Jennie Strutt is enjoying being a new mum. "He's not much of a sleeper so he won't be like this for long," she laughs.

With his perfectly soft skin and (when he does wake up) beautiful blue eyes, Henry is a picture of health. But when he was born premature, at just 32 weeks, both Jennie and husband Richard feared the worst.

The 35-year-old from Steeple Morden enjoyed a problem-free pregnancy until she began experiencing back and stomach pain two months before her due date. "I really didn't think anything of it," remembers Jennie. "I'd had a completely healthy pregnancy – no sickness, all of my scans said there were no problems; I actually really enjoyed being pregnant."

An insurance underwriter at a London-based firm, Jennie was grateful to be working from home that day, as the pains increased in severity and, unbeknown to her, developed into contractions. Jennie worked into the early evening but when the pain continued to increase, the couple decided to call the midwife, who told them to go to the Rosie Maternity Hospital at Addenbrooke's.

"I wasn't prepared for that," says Jennie. "I hadn't packed my bag, so I just grabbed some stuff off the side. It was very scary; one minute I was working and then suddenly we were driving to the hospital."

When they arrived at the Rosie, Jennie was quickly linked to a monitor to check the baby's heart beat, which was soon detected. "A doctor came in and examined me and I heard him say to the nurse: 'She's in labour and I can't stop it.'"

Jennie's labour was too advanced for her to be given drugs to slow it down, so instead she was given a steroid injection to help strengthen her baby's lungs.

"At 32 weeks the lungs are developed but they still need to mature," explains Jennie. "When I was in labour a neonatal doctor came in and she literally gave me a list of every vital organ that might not be developed properly. I think they have to tell you because they have to prepare you for the worst."

"My midwife was very good at explaining what would happen; she said there would be lots of people in the room, which there was, and that they had to bring in a resuscitation table for him. It was very scary."

After 15 hours of labour, Henry was born weighing just 4lb 3oz and, after checking his heart rate, there was time for a very quick cuddle before he was whisked away to the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU).

"It was heartbreaking when they had to take him away," says Jennie. "It's just not what you ever expect is going to happen when you have your baby."

As Henry's lungs were so small, he needed help to breathe and was put on to a CPAP (Continuous Positive Airway Pressure) Machine. "As soon as I was OK I was taken to see him," says Jennie. "The intensive care unit is a scary place as there were lots of really tiny babies. To see your baby attached to lots of drips and tubes is awful."

Henry underwent numerous tests and scans before being moved on to the Special Care Baby Unit (SCBU) when he was a day and a half old. "He was in hospital for 15 days," says Jennie. "You're allowed in to see your baby 24 hours a day, but you do get sent home to sleep because you're no good to your baby if you're absolutely exhausted. You just spend your day staring at monitors and watching oxygen going up and down. It was just awful to go home every night – I couldn't wait to get back there. We used to ring the hospital in the night to check he was OK."

As well as breathing problems, Henry had jaundice and needed UV light treatment. "That was really hard because we couldn't hold him as much because he needed to be under the lights for as long as possible. Holding Henry had a really calming effect on him, because sometimes his oxygen levels weren't that great and then I'd hold him and they would improve, which was just unbelievable. The staff were very good because they would tell us when we could hold him and say 'quick, go and get your cuddles in now.'"

When Henry was strong enough, the couple were allowed to take their precious son home and, despite being delighted by their new family, Jennie admits it was a very nerve-racking time.

"We didn't want to sleep," she says. "He weighed 5lb 3oz and was still feeding on a tube and I used to think to myself: 'I'm not medically trained.' But the Rosie has a team of nurses that come and visit for the first few weeks to check everything is all right."

Like all premature babies, Henry will be checked for any developmental problems up until the age of one, but now, at 10 months, he is happy and healthy.

Jennie was speaking to raise awareness of the dangers of premature birth; on Sunday, July 22, together with Richard and Henry, she took part in the first Cambridge Baby Race in aid of Tommy's, a national charity funding research into premature birth, miscarriage and stillbirth. Around 50 parents and babies took part in the 8km race in Milton Country Park, which has so far raised more than £4,000.

"Some people might have an idea they will deliver early, but until you're in that situation you don't realise how scary it's going to be," she says. "Everyone prepares you for your baby being late the first time, and I had no reason to think I would be any different. I spent a long time trying to think if it was something I did; you can start to beat yourself up about it, but I think it's just one of those unexplained things.

"One of the reasons why we wanted to support Tommy's was because, when Henry was born, everyone seemed to know exactly what to do, and all that stemmed from the research it gets from many different charities and funding, but Tommy's supports that."

Despite the traumatic experience of early labour, Jennie says it hasn't put her off having more children. "I think it would still be scary but I'd be more prepared next time.

"I think it's slightly more likely that I could have another premature baby, but I've met mums who have had a premature baby and then had one full term, and I've met mums who have gone on to have another premature baby. I think it just depends on each pregnancy."

Jennie hopes to raise more money for Tommy's in the future by taking part in the Cambridge Baby Race next year, and her sister, Alison, is doing her bit, too, by running the Royal Parks Half Marathon in October.

"The Rosie was fantastic and we really couldn't have been in better care," says Jennie. "Henry doesn't seem to have any long term issues due to his prematurity, for which I am eternally thankful – however, I know other parents aren't so lucky, which is why Tommy's work to prevent premature birth is so important."

Site inspection for homes plan

AMENDED plans for 91 new homes on a former football ground, which have raised objections from neighbours and Haverhill councillors, will be subject to a site inspection.

The Bloor Homes plan for the former Hamlet Croft Football ground in Hamlet Road, Haverhill, went before St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee last Thursday.

More than 100 residents attended an exhibition held by the company before it submitted a planning application.

Strong objections were raised to the plan because of

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

fears of overlooking due to the elevated position of the homes, and that traffic congestion in Hamlet Road would be made even worse, as well as flooding and drainage concerns.

Haverhill Town Council was vehemently opposed to the original plans and said the amended plan only addressed a small number of issues, with most of their concerns remaining.

However, the report to the committee said the loss of open space had been mitigated by the development of New Croft, the new home for Haverhill Rovers and other football teams in the town at Chalkstone Way.

It was felt the proposal was re-use of a redundant site in a highly sustainable location, which was considered acceptable subject to addressing all issues by planning conditions.

No objections were raised by the Highway Authority or the Environment Agency about it.

It said: "The proposed development as amended and subject to a legal agreement and conditions would not have an adverse impact on surrounding residential amenity, adjacent conservation area, or listed wall."

The application was deferred for a committee site inspection to be made on August 16.

Top stars lining up

Rupert Everett, Freddie Fox, Tom Conti, Kara Tointon, Felicity Kendal, Penelope Keith and Timothy West are among the stars heading to Cambridge, as JENNIFER SHELTON finds out

WITH so many excellent productions taking up residence at Cambridge Arts Theatre in the next few months, there's a danger the season to follow won't live up to such heights.

A host of famous faces and celebrated shows will be on offer to see us through until 2013.

Kicking off the season is Hysteria (September 3-8) with Antony Sher: part broad farce, part case history, this piece brings together two of the world's greatest and most eccentric minds, Sigmund Freud and Salvador Dali.

Hollywood star Rupert Everett comes to Cambridge to portray another prominent historical figure, Oscar Wilde, in David Hare's The Judas Kiss (November 12-17). It's 1895 and Wilde's masterpiece, The Importance of Being Earnest, is playing in the West End after a triumphant premiere – but already the wheels are in motion which will lead to the writer's imprisonment, downfall and vilification. Forced to make a choice between his lover and his freedom, the ever-romantic Wilde embarks on a course which will see him spiralling towards self-destruction. Also starring hot screen property Freddie Fox, this promises to be one of the highlights of the season.

The stars continue to come out with many Arts Theatre favourites showing off their talents in both high comedy and serious drama. Felicity Kendal, who we last saw in Mrs Warren's Profession, will be appearing in Alan Ayckbourn's celebrated Relatively Speaking (September 24-29) alongside Strictly Come Dancing winner and former EastEnders Kara Tointon. Showcasing Ayckbourn's sparkling wit, Relatively Speaking was the piece which first turned the playwright into a household name back in 1967. A story of young love and the perils of meeting the parents, this charmingly English comedy of misunderstandings is full of twists and clever observations on family and human nature itself.

Meanwhile, fellow Good Life chum Penelope Keith also returns to the Cambridge stage, playing a grieving widow in the touching and poignant Good Grief (November 5-10), adapted from the novel by Keith Waterhouse. Tasked by her late husband to keep a journal of her feelings after he passes away, it sounds rather like a P.S. I Love You for grown-ups.

Tom Conti – currently helping break box office records in The Dark Knight Rises – returns to Cambridge in Rough Justice (October 15-20), about a man defending himself against murder charges – a change from his last Arts Theatre turn in 2010's comedy, Wife After Death.

Before that, Timothy West stars in

The Handyman (October 8-13), a play that asks "challenging questions about guilt and responsibility" and includes cameo video appearances by Stephen Berkoff and Vanessa Redgrave.

As well as celebrating a wealth of acting talent, stars of the literary world are also well represented this season. English Touring Theatre will be bringing W Somerset Maugham's war-time drama, The Sacred Flame (November 20-24), while The Haunting (September 10-15), adapted from Charles Dickens's ghost stories, returns to thrill audiences and celebrate the bicentenary of his birth. And Sean O'Casey's The Plough and the Stars (October 2-6), will be coming to Cambridge for a limited run. Cambridge Arts Theatre regularly receives shows that have enjoyed success in the West End or on the silver screen and this trend is set to continue. Duet for One (September 19-22) tells the tale of a concert violinist based on the legendary Jacqueline du Pré, and musical classic Oliver! (November 26-December 1) brings Dickensian mischief to the stage. The 39 Steps (January 19-26), adapted from Alfred Hitchcock's classic film, returns to the Arts Theatre once again for jocular japes with all-British hero Richard Hannay, and classic Ealing comedy The Ladykillers (October 22-27), has just come out of a long and highly successful London run. Adapted by

ON THE WILDE SIDE: Rupert Everett, left, and Freddie Fox in The Judas Kiss, which will be at the Arts Theatre in November.

Father Ted/The IT Crowd's Graham Linehan and starring Clive Mantle, it has been reviewed by critics as "a glorious, madcap night out" and "a joy from start to finish".

The theatre's One Night Only series continues with an evening with author, broadcaster and journalist Will Self (October 7), who will be talking about his new book, Umbrella, and jazz legend Cleo Laine (November 18) who will be performing with her band.

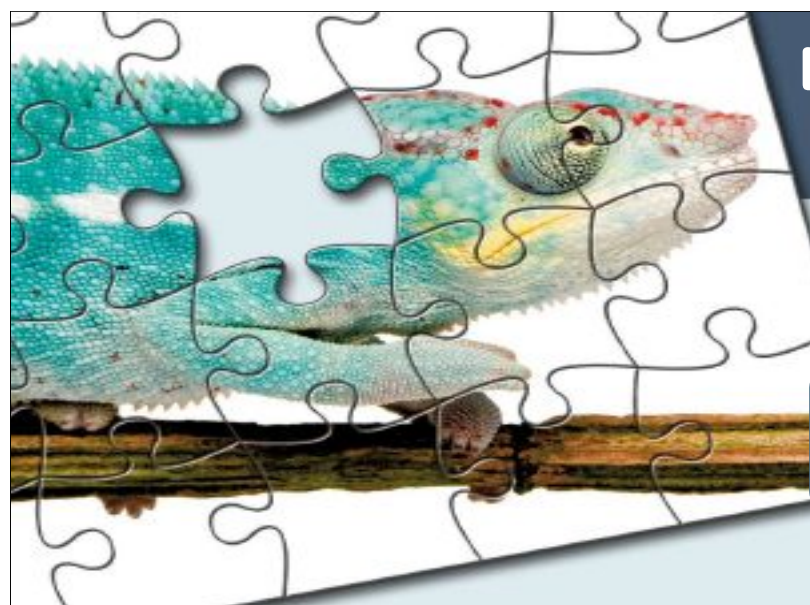

Younger theatregoers are not left out this season with Horrible Histories' Vile Victorians and Terrible Tudors (October 30-November 3) as a delightfully dastardly October half-term treat.

Enthusiasm-filled and leaving out none of the grisly bits of history, these action-packed live shows are just as likely to be enjoyed by adults as children.

And last, but by no means least, Cambridge Arts Theatre will be dusting off its glitterball and calling in the stars for its traditional family pantomime. Following the enormous success of Cinderella last year, Jack and the Beanstalk (December 6-January 13) is sure to prove a 'giant' of an adventure for all the family to enjoy. . .

There she blows!

DID you know that there's a place in Cambridge where an orangutan sits proudly in a nest, a fawn peeks around a corner and a colossal whale skeleton dangles from the roof? Where you can examine everything from dinosaur footprints and birds eggs to elephant bones and bugs? And where an amazing collection of creatures gathered by the great Charles Darwin are on display?

It's all at the Cambridge University Museum of Zoology, and there's plenty for budding Backshalls to see and do there this summer.

"One thing that's running throughout the holidays is our Big Bug Hunt," says education officer Roz Wade. "We've got special insects that you don't normally see dotted around the galleries: you can go round and find them, answer the questions, then enter our prize draw."

Happily the bugs range from the gorgeous to the gleefully gross: "We've got a Madagascan Sunset Moth, which is really quite beautiful, and some with slightly gruesome habits: there's a diving beetle that has a particularly nasty way of eating things..."

Then every Thursday in the holidays (from 2pm) kids can take part in 'crafty creatures', the chance to create everything from spiders to skeletons out of paper, pipe cleaners and the like. "Every week you can make a different kind of animal," says Roz. "We'll be doing sessions on mini-beasts, fossils and also on mammals, so you can make your own zoology collection to take home with you."

But even if you don't take part in the set activities, it's lovely just to have a wander around – particularly if your children aren't massively excited at the prospect of going to a museum. Before they've even set foot inside, they'll have spotted the colossal whale skeleton that hangs above the building – a guaranteed eye-popper for even the most unenthusiastic visitor.

"The finback whale is the second largest species of whale, so that's an easy way to spot where we are!" says Roz. "And usually we get a lot of 'wow's! when they come in the front door. Obviously the whale skeleton outside is very big and impressive, but as soon as you come into the galleries you can see a load more whale skeletons hanging from the ceiling: we have a killer whale and a narwhal – our narwhal is really unusual because it has two tusks instead of one."

Other animals on display are equally arresting: "We've got a giant spider crab from near Japan, which has a huge leg span of more than a metre. We have a giant tortoise from the Seychelles, a green turtle, and porcupine fish: it's a kind of puffa fish but with lots of spines on it, so it's all puffed out like a spiky football!"

Does Roz have a favourite? "I've lots of favourites," she smiles. "I really like the giant anteater – they're very characterful animals. We've got a skeleton and a skin, so you can see it's got a tail that looks like it's made of straw."

So why should families come?

"Because kids love animals," says Roz. "There are so many different kinds, some of them are very cute and some of them are very disgusting!"

"So come and discover some of the amazing diversity of animal life. We've got members of every major group of animals on display in our museum, from the huge finback whale right down to the very small creepy crawlies. And it's free!"

BRAVE

CERTIFICATE PG, 1h40m

HAVING almost completely stalled their creative engines with Cars 2, Pixar heads for the ancient Scottish highlands in this computer-animated fable of female empowerment.

Brave signals a return to form for Disney's team of digital wizards, striking a perfect balance between laughter and tears.

The central plot of a daughter's fractious relationship with her mother might be slight, but directors Mark Andrews, Brenda Chapman and Steve Purcell conjure excitement and heart-warming sentiment out of the ether.

King Fergus of Clan DunBroch (voiced by Billy Connolly) and his wife Queen Elinor (Emma Thompson) plan to marry off their daughter Merida (Kelly Macdonald) to the first-born son of one of the other clans. However, Merida disrupts the Highland Games which are designed to test the suitors, then flees into the forest where she encounters a witch (Julie Walters).

The princess asks for a spell that will change her fate and so the witch gives Merida an enchanted cake. When Queen Elinor takes a bite she metamorphoses into a bear – the same animal which cleaved off King Fergus' left leg.

Merida is consumed with regret, fearing her father will kill Queen Elinor in her fearsome new form, so mother and daughter head into the wilderness to break the spell.

The quality of animation in Brave is jaw-dropping. Merida's fiery flowing locks deserve an Oscar on their own, such is the exquisite detail of every windswept fibre. And that's before your eyes are wooed by the sweeping landscapes, action-packed chases and colourful supporting characters.

The 3D format is used sparingly

As usual, Pixar packages an animated short with the main feature and this year's offering is La Luna, a stunning seven-minute coming-of-age story about a young boy who discovers his family business is, quite literally, out of this world.

Devoid of dialogue, Enrico Casarosa's bite-size gem, which was nominated as Best Animated Short at this year's Academy Awards, is utterly beguiling and very nearly upstages Merida's gung-ho wee tale of girl power.

Fears grow over allotment sites

A LLOTMENT holders nationwide are gathering to safeguard their plots in light of worries that their land may be sold.

A recent survey conducted by the National Allotment Society found that 74% of members are worried that their allotment land will be sold and redeveloped, while the society receives hundreds of calls a year from people looking for advice on how best to safeguard their plots.

Donna McDaid, national secretary for the society, explains: "Unfortunately, it is too easy for landlords to dispose of allotment land without realising the huge benefits they provide to individuals, communities and the environment."

"There is now an even greater need to galvanise the interest and support of communities, especially as planners see allotments as prime development land."

With National Allotments Week, which began on Monday and is in full swing until Sunday, local allotment associations have been hosting Parties on the Plot to help galvanise community support for the allotment movement.

by Hannah Stephenson

More than 35 events have been planned throughout the event, ranging from barbecues and plant stalls to cream teas and children's festivals.

There are an estimated 330,000 allotment plots in the UK and nearly 100,000 people on the allotment waiting lists, according to the society, with rents ranging from £5 to £120 a year.

The organisation is concerned that if this land was developed, billions of insects and animals would be wiped out, the risk of flooding in towns and cities would increase, and air pollution would intensify, not to mention the detrimental impact it would have on people's health and wellbeing.

To find an allotment near you, call your local council or visit your library which should have a list of allotment sites in the area. Some councils provide literature, run courses for beginners and take part in National Allotments Week. To find the right site for you:

■ Make sure it's close to home. You won't want to catch a bus carrying tools or get in a car after a long, hard day at work to get there.

■ Choose a site which has fences, hedges and locked gates at night to deter vandals.

■ Check water arrangements. Councils should supply mains water at a convenient distance for plot holders. A mains water supply in the form of tanks and standpipes is essential.

■ Examine the plot which is offered to you. Work out if you have plenty of sun or if the plot is going to be in shadow, which isn't good for a lot of vegetables. Large trees may cast shade.

■ Study the neighbours' plots. If they are neglected and dominated by weeds such as ground elder, you may be facing a losing battle.

■ For more information, visit www.nsalg.org.uk.

LOSING THE PLOT? Many allotment holders fear losing their land to planners, who see it as ripe for new developments.

Want one? Thought so!

Value matters in a motor

GLASS'S GUIDE has revealed the top five petrol and diesel cars that suffer the least from depreciation – the decline in value of a car from new.

The current residual value winner is the Toyota Land Cruiser. One of the key reasons for the Land Cruiser's success – its slightly larger derivative the Amazon comes in at number five – is that it has never been the victim of distress marketing by the manufacturer, so used examples have been in limited supply.

Also in the top five diesels are the Skoda Yeti and Octavia. Benefiting from VW underpinnings, Skoda's vehicles are very reliable and buyers are starting to catch on to this.

Completing the top five diesels is Audi's Q5.

GLASS'S TOP TEN RESIDUAL VALUE CARS JULY 2012

Ranking Model Range & derivative% Residual value (58 plate, 37,000 miles) Cost new Current Value

TOP 5 PETROL MODELS

1 Fiat 500 1.2 69bhp Sport H/b 3d	66.7%	$9,410	$6,275
2 Ford Focus RS 2.5 301bhp H/b 3d	66.2%	$24,730	$16,375
3 Audi Q7 3.6 FSI V6 276bhp quattro S Line	65.7%	$42,635	$28,000
4 Fiat 500 Convertible 1.2 69bhp Pop Con 2d	63.8%	$11,210	$7,150
5 Suzuki Jimny 1.3 83bhp JXL Est 3d	63.0%	$9,641	$6,075

TOP 5 DIESEL MODELS

1 Toyota Land Cruiser 4.5 D-4D Sln/wag 5d auto	79.5%	$54,510	$43,325
2 Skoda Yeti 2.0TDI CR 4x4 Sln Wagon 5d	76.0%	$21,115	$16,050
3 Audi Q5 2.0TDI 141bhp quattro S Line Sln/wag 5d	74.6%	$30,120	$22,475
4 Skoda Octavia 2.0 TDI PD 140bhp Scout Est 5d	70.7%	$20,100	$14,200
5 Toyota Land Cruiser Amazon 4.2 TD Sln/wag Amazon	69.8%	$49,575	$34,625

League table is based on three-year old vehicles (59 plate).

As for petrols, the popular Fiat 500 makes the top five in both hardtop and convertible format.

The Fiat 500 is retro yet modern at the same time and is a totally classless vehicle appealing to a very broad range of customer.

The convertible version retains its B and C-pillar which makes it less of a compromise than most soft-tops.

The 300bhp rally-derived Ford Focus RS also features, and like previous RS Fords, it is distinctive from the mainstream Focus and its limited supply ensures that it keeps a very strong resale value.

Two of the top five petrols are four-wheel drive vehicles.

The Audi Q7 is one of the few Audis with real stand-out looks and is towards the more affordable end of the Q7 range. A strong image ensures this model's place on the list.

The Suzuki Jimny may be towards the other end of the 4x4 sector in the prestige stakes, but its super-cheap list price ensures its value doesn't fall too sharply in the early years of ownership.

Latest Abarth options are great news for Fiat 500 fans

TWO new model names herald the UK arrival of the new high-performance Abarth 500 and 595 ranges.

An overhaul of the original and highly successful Abarth 500 line-up signifies a milestone in the development of the historic Scorpion brand. And to celebrate that history, two new versions of the sporting hatchback and convertible have been revealed: the 595 Turismo and the 595 Competizione.

Both of these cars will come as standard with a 160bhp version of the turbocharged 1.4 T-Jet engine, to offer greater choice for customers in terms of enhanced standard specifications.

The original Abarth 500 will remain as an entry-level model, though a new colour, and extra standard equipment has been added, while the on-the-road price has been reduced. An esseees higher performance option will continue to be available for the Abarth 500 as part of a dealer upgrade kit.

All three new versions will be available in manual form or with Abarth's MTA (Manual Transmission Automated) semi-automatic gearbox.

"While the Abarth 500 is positioned as an entry point for customers to gain access to the brand, the 595 models will now allow customers to progress or renew their Abarth experience and will also attract new drivers to the marque," says Ivan Gibson, head of Abarth in the UK.

The Abarth 500's main standard features are its 1.4-litre T-Jet engine in either 135bhp manual guise or 140bhp MTA (Manual Transmission Automated) format, with 'Corsa' pack including inox pedals, footrest and door kick-plates. Sport mode includes 16-inch alloy wheels, air-con, front fog lights, rear parking sensors and leather gear lever surround.

The 500 manual is tagged at £13,975, and £15,275 for the MTA. The 500C manual is £15,875, and £17,175 for the MTA option.

Meanwhile the Abarth 595 Turismo features a 1.4-litre T-Jet engine 160bhp (manual and MTA) and a 'Turismo' pack including Alutex pedals, footrest and door kick-plates, bespoke floor mats, machined aluminium filler caps, dark tinted rear windows, upgraded front and rear dampers, leather and 17-inch 10-spoke Diamond finish alloys. Prices start at £17,725 for the manual.

The top-spec Abarth 595 Competizione features a 1.4-litre T-Jet engine 160bhp (manual and MTA) 'Competizione' pack and prices start at £18,725.

Suzuki Swift Sport wins 'Best hot hatchback 2012' accolade

FOLLOWING on from the award presented to Suzuki from Carbuyer as the 'Best Hot Hatchback for 2012', Suzuki has announced that the Swift Sport has been voted as the top rated car in its latest review of 30 sports car models on sale, also published last week in Auto Express magazine.

The Swift Sport was the only car to score five out of a possible five overall, with the judges all agreeing that the latest model combines agile and entertaining handling, a low kerb weight and sparkling performance all at a very affordable price.

The performance flagship of the Swift range was comprehensively judged by the editorial team and was the clear winner against very strong direct competition as well as premium sports cars costing four times as much to buy, and at least three that are firmly in the supercar category.

The Swift Sport is available for £13,499 with a high standard equipment specification which includes seven airbags, auto aircon, cruise control, Bluetooth connectivity and USB port, rear privacy glass, 17-inch alloy wheels and metallic paint finish. HID Projector headlamps for both low and high beam are also fitted as standard – a safety feature either not available or listed as a cost option among its competitors.

Dale Wyatt, sales and marketing director, Suzuki GB, comments: "We are of course really pleased with the results of this comprehensive review by Carbuyer.co.uk. It reinforces the message to our customers that Suzuki offers a great value and fun to drive Swift Sport with high standard spec, lower emissions and even better fuel consumption than before."

For buyers looking for a low deposit and low monthly payments, Swift Sport is now included in Suzuki's popular PCP (Personal Contract Purchase) scheme until the end of September.

Best hot hatchback:
The Suzuki Swift Sport.

£1,000 off Astra list price

HOT on the heels of the GTC BiTurbo, Vauxhall is adding two more high performance 2.0-litre diesels with 195PS and 400 Nm torque to its Astra range.

The British-built Astra BiTurbo 5-door hatch and sports tourer – which becomes the most powerful estate in its class – offer blistering performance, high levels of practicality and impressive frugality.

Both models have a top speed in excess of 135mph and can achieve 0-60mph in under eight seconds. The boost in performance does not compromise economy either, with low CO2 emissions of 134g/km and a combined 55.4mpg. Both models also benefit from start/stop technology.

Twin turbo technology is rare in this class and the Astra uses a sequential turbocharging system, with the smaller turbo accelerating quickly at lower speeds to eliminate 'lag', providing 320Nm of torque from 1,250rpm.

Both BiTurbo models come with an array of unique features including 18-inch alloys, twin rear exhausts, exterior styling pack and alloy sports pedals.

Available to order now, with first deliveries expected late 2012, prices start from £24,095 for the hatch and from £25,110 for the sports tourer.

Meanwhile, Cambridge Vauxhall dealer Murketts has slashed £1,000 off the Astra Active until October 1.

Equipped with 17-inch alloy wheels, aircon, cruise control and Bluetooth as standard, the Astra Active combines rakish, sporty looks with the practicality of a five-door hatch.

To give customers added peace of mind, all new cars in the Vauxhall range automatically come with a warranty valid for the lifetime of the vehicle up to a maximum of 100,000 miles.

To take advantage of the £1,000 saving on the Astra Active before October 1, call Murketts on (01223) 706706 or go to www.murketts.co.uk.

Powerful: The Vauxhall Astra BiTurbo hatch.

£1,000 off: The Vauxhall Astra Active.

30% more forests

No wonder you ♥ paper

Did you know that forests in Europe, which provide wood for making into paper and many other widely used materials, are 30% larger than in 1950?
In fact they're increasing by 1.5 million football pitches every year.*

If you love reading your favourite newspaper, isn't it good to know that it's made from natural and renewable wood.

Are you looking to be a Recruitment Revolutionary?

We are a leading independent recruitment agency, who is fast tracking its way to the top. Already with offices in Cambridge, Exeter, Norwich and Bristol, we are not just stopping there. We have grown by the quality of service and are known for not compromising on this. We operate in the permanent, temporary and contractor markets, servicing the following sectors, which include: Construction, M & E and Technical.

As a recruitment consultant with us, your role would be to embrace new and existing business customers throughout the area through 'intelligent' sales and marketing campaigns, holding cutting edge presentations, winning business, sourcing star talent candidates, interviewing and coaching candidates and matching skills and cultures together for a win-win situation!

We do dare to be different and simply love what we do, so you will need to be the type of person who enjoys an incredibly fast paced role, who can successfully prove that you can meet big goals and that you really do have a genuine love for recruitment. After all, you are dealing with people's lives and businesses so we are looking for raw drive, integrity and passion coupled with the desire to be part of the team.

Recruitment expertise would give you an extra brownie point however, our promise from the outset has always been to find the behaviour first as we can train you in recruitment. We will lead you, coach you and train you - the rest is up to your drive and resilience - we are all really busy so if you do not have a get up and go attitude and need pushing constantly then this probably isn't the role for you.

Horseheath are the champions

HORSEHEATH are celebrating promotion back to the top flight of the Adams Harrison Midweek League.

Robbie Ketteridge and Gary Ellis led the way as they beat Haverhill II to secure the Division 2W title.

Ketteridge made 45 and Andy Edwards added 33 in Horseheath's innings of 132 for 6, before Ellis took 5 for 14 and David Lowe 3 for 26 as Haverhill replied with 113. Liam Botten top-scored with 32.

Shelfords ran Horseheath close for the title, overpowering Babraham to clinch second place. Having restricted their opponents to 81 for 9, Shelfords reached 84 without loss in the 13th over.

Fulbourn finished well with a comfortable win against Abington II. James Kindred hit 45 and Niall Barber 39 in their total of 156 for 3, while only Will Lander threatened with 30 as Abington limped to 68 for 3 in reply.

However, ample consolation came for Abington II as they turned in their best performance of the summer to beat Long Melford in the League Cup final.

Matt Norman (44) and James Lawrence (40) batted well for the victors, while Jamie Ketteridge took 4 for 23 to help seal victory.

In Division 1W, Abington's Harry Randall hit 55 and Keith Vincent 28 to steer them to 136 for 3, but that was not enough for victory against Saffron Walden, who had posted 150 for 5 despite Andrew Argent's spell of 3 for 31.

In Division 3W, Helions Bumpstead recorded two wins. Opponents Ickleton posted 125 for 1, with Dan Gaine scoring an unbeaten 65 and Tom Arkwright adding 50 not out. However, Helions overhauled the total with five wickets to spare.

They also beat Linton, bowling their opponents out for 91 after setting 129 for 4. Andrew Searle took 3 for 12 and Tom Wrenn 3 for 20 for the victors.

Wratting Lions had no joy in their two matches. Paul Turner took 3 for 6 against Mill Green, but Lions were bowled out for 82 in reply to 109 for 5. Turner also had three wickets against Linton, helping K Ewens (5 for 8) dismiss their opponents for 86, only for Lions to stall on 82 for 8.

Perrett sends out message with a Telegraph triumph

MICHAEL Perrett and Fiona Stokes were among the winners at Haverhill Golf Club's Junior Captain's Day, incorporating the Telegraph Junior Championship.

Perrett won the 18-hole medal Telegraph Junior Championship for boys with a gross score of 70 (nett 65), while Stokes took the girls' event with a nett 82.

The overall winner of the Junior Captain's Cup for 36 holes was Edward Halpin with 62+63=125. Second went to Louis Martin with 63+63=126 and third to Joshua Hulyer on 67+65=132, all playing off the yellow tees.

Both Halpin and Martin have had their handicaps slashed by four shots due to their exceptional play over the two rounds.

The overall result for the white tee 36-hole competition was extremely close and the top three had to be decided on count back.

First went to Liam Merritt (70+65=135), second to Hayden Durrant (67+68=135) and third to Richard Boyles (67+68=135).

The winner of the 36-hole stableford competition, played off red tees was Ben Bradnam with 33pts + 39pts.

Morning white tee medal results: 1 Michael Perrett 70-5-65, 2 Richard Boyles 75-8-67, 3 Hayden Durrant 79-12-67.

The yellow tee competition was won by Halpin (97-28-69), ahead of Martin (92-24-70) and Hulyer (107-27-80).

» Football: Thurlow Nunn League

PETER Betts is confident Haverhill Rovers can put a poor start to the season behind them when they set out on the FA Cup trail tomorrow.

Rovers have lost their first two matches in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division, going down 2-1 at home to Brantham Athletic last Saturday before a 3-0 reverse at the hands of visitors Wisbech on Tuesday night.

But Betts believes his team are ready to turn it around when they visit Wivenhoe in the extra preliminary round of the FA Cup on Saturday.

The manager said: "I'm glad those two games are out of the way. We knew they would be difficult.

"We've had two matches now and players have had a good amount of minutes on the pitch, so I'm a bit more hopeful going into Saturday."

The match against Brantham started in torrential rain, and Rovers fell behind in the 23rd minute when goalkeeper Liam Cutts collected a back pass from team-mate Ryan Clark and an indirect free kick was awarded.

As Rovers protested to the referee that it was not a deliberate back pass, Brantham's Joshua Mayhew took the set-piece quickly and Angelo Harrop placed the ball wide of Cutts.

Haverhill felt they had more cause for a grievance as the ball appeared to be moving, and there was a question mark over whether Harrop was offside.

The goal stood, and Haverhill's task was made harder three minutes into the second half when Lee Grimwood's ball in was headed home by Michael Brothers.

Betts looking for Rovers recovery

Letting fly: Dan Cornwell shoots for Haverhill Rovers against Brantham Athletic.

Picture: Gary Brown (CP)

The hosts pulled a goal back in the 56th minute, Dan Cornwell turning on the right and pulling the ball back to Jacob Brown, who made space for himself before beating helpless keeper Ryan Bedingfield at his near post from 10 yards.

But captain Paul Abbott received his second yellow card on the hour and, despite their best efforts with 10 men, the home side could not find a leveller.

Haverhill conceded an early goal against Wisbech on Tuesday, but rallied well and came close to drawing level when defensive midfielder Stuart Kingham hit the crossbar with one shot and saw another cleared off the line.

The rest of the first half was evenly contested but after just 10 minutes of the second half, the Fenmen took control.

Two goals confirmed their superiority and although Cornwell had a good chance late on, the game was over as a contest by then.

"In the second half, Wisbech outclassed us," said Betts. "They were fitter and stronger and I was actually impressed with them. They were deserved winners."

■ Rovers had warmed up for the league season with a 5-0 win against a Needham Market XI in their final friendly.

Jack Higgs curled in a free kick early on and Cornwell made it 2-0 after 35 minutes.

He converted a penalty after the break and completed his hat-trick with a powerful shot, before Ryan Henshaw got on the end of Aaron Forshaw's through ball to make it 5-0.
